

SOFA: ROCHE BOBOIS
Scoop it Up

This sofa's name is not the only reason we chose to include it on our pages (although we won't deny its influence); it was just too cool to pass up. This Scoop sofa by Roche Bobois is made of natural, eco-friendly fabric so you can feel good about buying it before you look good sitting on it. Available in over 200 colors and as a single-seat chair. Sofa, about $7,500. —BC More: 15530 N. Greenway-Hayden Loop, Scottsdale, AZ; 480.443.0430; www.roche-bobois.com

HOME TOUR:
GNOSIS, LTD.
At Home with Design

Our favorite architects and designers are usually a happy bunch, not because they often appear in magazines like this one, but because they live in such well-designed homes. On November 3 and 4, from 10 am to 5 pm both days, about a dozen designers and architects will open their homes for one of the finest home tours ever arranged in the Phoenix area. See the studio of Bill Tonnesen (left) who was featured in the last issue of DL, the home of Catherine Hayes (top) who built the AIA/DL 2007 Home of the Year, and the Farling residence (bottom). Tickets are $65 and include a lecture by Architects Mark Ryan and Michael Underhill on November 2 at ASU. —MJ
